

FILMS ON DEMAND

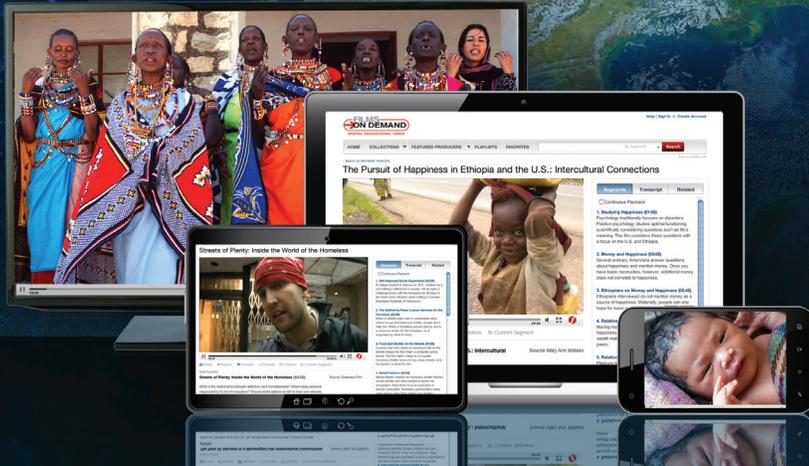

DIGITAL EDUCATIONAL VIDEO

NEW! SOCIOLOGY Streaming Video Collection

38,950 VIDEO CLIPS / 2,550 FULL-LENGTH VIDEOS / AND GROWING!

INCLUDES:

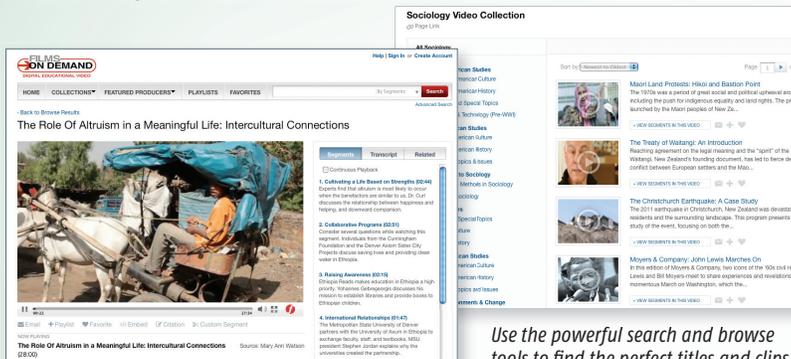

African-American Studies
 Asian-American Studies
 Introduction to Sociology
 Latino Studies
 Native American Studies
 Social Environments & Change
 Social Inequality
 Social Institutions
 Social Structure
 Social Work
 Women's and Gender Studies

Give your sociology faculty and their students convenient 24/7 access to more than 2,550 relevant films segmented into clips—perfect for lecture launchers and in-class use.

This new streaming video collection comprehensively covers the wide range of topics essential to the study of sociology. Now your entire department can enjoy unlimited access to in-depth documentaries, lectures, and curriculum-focused instructional videos from BBC, California Newsreel, Bill Moyers, PBS, Films for the Humanities & Sciences, and hundreds of independent filmmakers and archival sources—many available exclusively on Films On Demand.

- Conveniently segmented for lecture and in-class use
- Unlimited access from any location—on campus or off
- More than 2,550 educational videos, lectures, and documentaries from top producers
- Captions, interactive transcripts, citations, Google Translate, and more
- New videos added at no additional cost
- Easily embed videos into Blackboard, Moodle, or other CMS
- iPad, PC, Mac, and Android friendly

Use the powerful search and browse tools to find the perfect titles and clips for lectures and assignments.

Once you find the clips you need, use the custom playlist tool or embed code to provide instant access for students through your online course management system.

Free Trial!

www.infobaselearning.com/Trial

NEW! SOCIOLOGY Streaming Video Collection

The thousands of individual titles in this collection comprehensively cover the wide range of topics essential to the study of sociology. From poverty, gender inequality, and social justice to crime, prejudice, globalization, and so much more, key subjects in sociology are explored by in-depth documentaries and curriculum-focused instructional videos.

Here's a sampling of the collection highlights:

Up—the classic documentary series that revisits the lives of the same people every seven years, from the age of seven to the present day. Aside from the core episodes from Michael Apted's original U.K. series, the format was also extended to America, Japan, South Africa, and Russia/U.S.S.R. 17 programs.

Why Poverty?—the Peabody Award-winning PBS series that presents more than eight hours of moving and thought-provoking stories from around the globe, while asking difficult questions about why a billion people worldwide still live in poverty.

All Watched Over by Machines of Loving Grace—the provocative BBC series that argues that computers have failed to liberate humanity and instead have “distorted and simplified our view of the world around us.”

Why Women Count Video Clip Collection—more than three hours of content spanning 41 countries, focusing on the theme of empowerment and what that means in the lives of ordinary women around the world. Ideal for increasing awareness and stimulating conversation.

Understanding Sociology—a comprehensive seven-part series introducing sociology's origins, core concepts, theory, research methods, applications, and more.

Race: The Power of an Illusion—the groundbreaking three-hour documentary series by California Newsreel that debunks the misconception that “race” is a physiologically accurate way to categorize human beings.

For Love of Liberty: The Story of America's Black Patriots (University Edition)—the Image Award-winning four-hour series hosted by Halle Berry and featuring an all-star cast (Morgan Freeman, Ruby Dee, John Travolta, Danny Glover, Angela Bassett, and others) reading from a collection of letters, diaries, speeches, and military records that document the sacrifices and accomplishments of African-American men and women in America's wars.

Portraits in Human Sexuality—a Telly Award-winning seven-part series, produced by a clinical psychologist and a social psychologist, that delves into important and sometimes controversial issues in human sexuality.

Freakonomics and SuperFreakonomics—a two-part video companion to the best-selling books that use economic theory to uncover strange sociological convergences, such as the role of legalized abortion in reducing crime, the effect of birth control on the teaching profession, and more.

Fighting the Tide: Developing Nations and Globalization—three series totaling 14 parts that document the impact of globalization on the lives of people in developing countries.

More than 100 exclusive programs from The Bill Moyers Collection, including On Our Own Terms, his six-hour series on death and dying, Challenging Hispanic Stereotypes: Arturo Madrid, America's Growing Economic Divide, Unequal Education, and more.

